Transmissions 8-11

Hello this is Rio:

Hello this is Rio speaking for our next transmission. OK to begin with, we want to share this information with you:

As you may already know from our previous transmissions, there was an intergalactic meeting on the Jupiter moon Europa. Many things were discussed but most importantly, how to stop the pollution and destruction of planet Earth's environment. Our friend Hanta who was at the meeting, decided to take the advice of a young Kogi Indian speaker who was also trying to reverse the global destruction on Earth. To this end, Hanta would assist those who wished to help save and heal Mother Earth. It was decided that there should be a mission, which was to show the people who live on the Earth's surface, that there were better and fairer alternatives to the way they were running their economies. In our previous Earth Tykes transmissions, we told you we had decided to work with Hanta on this mission, to contact the Earth surface people. We had already been given a very excellent little spaceship and a hi-tech buggy for transport; these vehicles would help us a great deal as you will see.

So for these new transmissions, the first thing Hanta wanted to do, was to show us some of the terrible destruction in the rainforests and oceans on Earth. This way we would be able to see at first hand, how reckless some of the corporations and logging companies had been.

We would use our space-marine ship to make our observations of environmental destruction. It had an invisibility function which we would need for flying in populated areas. This was because a wingless flying machine would normally attract a lot of attention and we didn't want that right now.

Rio

Deforestation

And so on a bright sunny morning we took to the skies in our space-marine. We decided to look for large clouds of smoke rising from the rain forests, then we would fly down for closer investigation.

Rio

We arrived at a clearing in the rainforests of Brazil. We could hardly believe the amount of destruction through 'slashing and burning' by poor farmers and logging companies. "What can we do in the face of such destruction, they've trashed everything," said La Paz. Rio

“Where have all our animal friends gone?” asked Lima tearfully. Hanta gazed into the sky as if he was awaiting for something to happen. “This is what the governments of the world allow when they have no love for their people or the Earth. We must return home, there is something we need to do,” said Hanta. Rio

As soon as we had returned to our garden, Hanta invited us to join him in a visualization exercise. First of all we closed our eyes and relaxed. After a while we began to go within ourselves into a semi-dream world, but we were still awake in this other world. Next we led our imaginations into thoughts of recreating the forests that had been destroyed. Hanta told us, that you cannot control the imagination only lead it, but this sort of exercise would eventually help to save the rain forests. People would gradually receive the love we had sent in our thoughts and become aware of the damage they were doing. Hanta believed that the more people got involved in this sort of communion with spirit and nature, the sooner the destruction would stop.

Rio

In our thoughts we connected as a group, and we were aware of this in our conscious dream world. Then we simply imagined ourselves creating new life in the forest. We imagined using colorful energy beams and strange giant seeds that were able to create an entire forest within moments, although in reality, it may take many years on the Earth. After a while our imagined forest began to take shape and it was abundant with life and color.

Rio

In our peaceful contemplation we became one with the new forest we were visualizing; we seemed to merge with the harmony and color of our beautiful thought creations. Hanta was also with us,
“Such is the mighty power of the forces of creation,” Hanta declared and there was a great peace between us before we awoke back in our garden upon the Earth. Rio

Before leaving to attend to other business, Hanta told us that on our next journey we would go deep inside the Earth to see the recycling work that goes on there. The Agarthans, the inner Earth people, had given permission for this. We were very excited because we had heard stories of many beautiful places inside the Earth. Rio

Transmission 9:

Recycling

Cara

Hi this is Cara again and I am going to take you with us to the inside of the Earth. The Earth dried out eons ago and like all planets, it is hollow and with a small sun at the central core. Once inside the Earth, we will check out the recycling facilities and make contact with Mother Earth, whom we call Gaia... Cara

Somewhere near the centre of Antarctica we came to a small mountain range with forested slopes that appeared to fold into the Earth. We could see the partially submerged remnants of an ancient civilization revealed in the melting ice as we continued on our journey. Eventually we entered a huge cavernous space leading to the inside of the Earth. We were escorted by two high-tech saucer ships and Hanta told us that everything was prearranged with the friendly inhabitants of the ships. Cara

A short time later we flew through one of the openings that bypass the rivers of fresh water and liquid lava under the Earth's crust. Immediately we could see the sun at the centre of the world, it reflected its light above the surface, known as the Aurora Borealis by the surface world people. There are marvelous cities and a whole new civilization down here.

"Most surface people know nothing of the inner Earth although that will change soon," Hanta told us. Cara

We were amazed to see a floating city which, according to Hanta, was really a spaceship laboratory used by benevolent human extraterrestrials, they are sometimes seen in their UFOs around the world.

Cara

We landed at the edge of a city on the inside of the Earth's crust. Some of our Earth Tykes friends were already there to greet us before they continued with their research agendas. Hanta told us we would be introduced to the inner Earth people at a later time, but for now, he was anxious we should see the recycling station nearby. Cara

Near to where we had landed by the city, we were taken to the recycling stations. This marvelous inner Earth technology had been secretly purifying human pollution from the surface world, since the days of the Industrial Revolution. You could just feel the clean life giving energy here.

This recycling facility was like a fabulous Oriental garden using a technology that energized itself, and operated by itself. Hanta told us that it was here, that all the waters of the outer planet oceans were recycled. The water was then sent back to the surface world fresh and unsalted, through openings at the polar regions. This was why icebergs were composed of fresh unsalted water.

Cara

We watched as water was purified and toxic poisons from the petrochemical corporations made safe in the processes around us. The technology used here was very advanced, way beyond anything we had seen on the surface world.

Cara

As a part of our education we Earth Tykes know that the higher technology becomes, the more it becomes an extension of our consciousness and the spirits in our bodies.

simulated biogenic screens

Simulated biogenic screens are used by us for learning. They work on the principal that universal light in the form of photons or electrons can react with our biological chemical impulses to produce information. The screens are programmed to read the pupil's DNA and amino acid functions. From here it is possible to read sentient intelligence or spiritual awareness. Any limitations in the pupil's consciousness relating to their age group, can then be removed, by using the correct educational pathway. This may sound mind blowing to many Earth surface dwellers, but similar technology principles may be found in such ancient books as the I Ching from ancient China.

We were able to read all the information we needed about the health of our world regarding sentient life; and a significant oxygen depletion problem was identified.

From here we were able to observe that the surface world and its life forms were gradually being deoxygenated, but oxygen is so important of course. There were several reasons for this, for example, we saw how sulphur was being depleted from the human food chain by using chemical fertilizers instead of natural ones. Sulphur is a chemical element which also helps to oxygenate the bodies of people and animals, it is essential to keep them strong and more able to fight against disease. We had already seen the more obvious destruction that was depleting the Earth's oxygen supply, such as deforestation, because the trees can convert carbon dioxide into oxygen.

Transmission 10:

Mother Earth

La Paz

OK it's La Paz...tune in folks, check this out!

Hanta returned to us bringing the news that he had spoken with leaders from the inner Earth people, it would seem they wanted us to hear a transmission from Mother Earth herself. We did not quite understand how this was possible, but there was all kinds of advanced technology here and probably something would work. Mother Earth [whom we call Gaia], had an urgent message that she wanted us to take to the whales in our oceans; she works with them closely to sustain life on our planet. We were told to prepare for a shock but we had no idea what it would be.

Our trip to the inner Earth was very interesting though we didn't get to meet with the people there yet; they have some cool technology though. We were now focussed on meeting Gaia, somehow, and Hanta explained that the body of Gaia was curled around the Earth as a conscious energy; it was almost as if she was a baby inside an egg waiting to be born. Hanta later told us that there was an ancient technology that would allow her to transmit a message to us. We would visit an underground chamber where a large screen would project images of the communication from Gaia.

The Kogi Indians had also asked us to communicate with the big sea people who are of course, the whales and dolphins. The Kogi told us that they had a secret which may help to bring the Earth back into balance and we would learn more of this later. Our Earth Tyke clans will work closely with the Kogi Indians and the whales and dolphins.

When Hanta arrived to collect us from the recycling station, he had news from one of the inner Earth leaders that we could access a sacred cavern where a device for communication with Mother Earth had been prepared for use. We made a relatively short journey in the space-marine and arrived at a huge cavernous space deep beneath the Earth's crust. We had no idea where we were, we just followed Hanta on foot for the final part of our journey.

La Paz

Eventually we found ourselves standing before a large screen in an elaborately carved chamber. On the screen there appeared to be images of a lush green forest interwoven with strange lights and geometries. Hanta later told us, we were looking at a form of visual language that communicated to a person's soul, rather than to their mind using spoken or written words. That's awesome I thought, I love stuff like that. As we gazed at the screen we felt very peaceful and no-one spoke a word for several minutes.

La Paz

Suddenly and without warning, there was a flash of lightening and a roll of thunder that almost frightened us out of our wits.
La Paz

There was terrifying chaos all around us. We watched helplessly amidst scenes of gigantic robotic machines trying to take over the Earth in a great war. It seemed as though the whole world was being torn apart.

La Paz

Above us there appeared huge globes with what appeared to be crystal skulls inside of them. The cavern walls had given way to scenes of great destruction, but whether they were scenes from the past or the future we could not say. Only Hanta remained calm. He held a magical lantern aloft which helped to bring peace and courage to our hearts. La Paz

Eventually the scenes subsided and we knew that some magical force had created this huge apparition.

As everything appeared to calm down we gathered in front of the screen again. After a few moments we were suddenly awe struck by the appearance of a woman's face in the centre of the screen. She introduced this version of herself as a two dimensional representation of Mother Earth. "You may call me Gaia if you wish," she told us. La Paz

We immediately felt very reverent towards Gaia on the screen. She spoke to us sincerely and calmly and we listened intently. First of all she wished to apologize for what we had just experienced.

“I hope I did not scare you too much with what has just happened. I created a three dimensional hologram to illustrate the chaos and the struggle to maintain harmony on Earth. I also wished to impress upon you the secret of the thirteen crystal skulls, there are life size versions of these skulls on the surface world. They store a sacred energy with information to awaken the surface humanity. Humans must now have greater understanding if they are to move forward in peace,” Gaia explained.

As we continued to talk, Gaia warned us there would be much opposition to our quest. There would be those in power who did not wish the surface population to be aware of their destiny.

“The surface people we call humanity, must endeavor to bring the love of heaven down to the Earth through their hearts,” she told us. “There are many beings on, off and beneath planet Earth, who are willing to assist humanity. The surface world is changing very quickly now and we need a mission from kind little people like the Earth Tykes, to reassure as many humans who will listen, that despite all the troubles, humanity will succeed and bring heaven to Earth. How long this takes, depends on how quickly people can wake up to a greater reality.”

There was much for us to think about and we were grateful that Hanta was with us. We Earth Tykes had a lot to learn about humans on the Earth, in a very short time. We had to learn to interact with human technology, which is generally rather cumbersome. Communications, energy and travel technology, along with medical practices are unbelievably crude. We have a joke that comes to mind, that it was your use of ‘crude oil’ that kept your technology so ‘crude’ in the simplistic sense, and that is a fact.

As is often the case we Earth Tykes share some of our thoughts telepathically, and something began to happen to the screen as we all thought about the oil problem on Earth...

La Paz

Suddenly the screen changed and now we could see the Gulf of Mexico. We saw how an oil tanker deliberately spilt its cargo in an attempt to destroy a meeting place for the cetaceans, the whales and dolphins.

Time was of the essence to avoid much calamity...Mother Earth was an entity that needed love and nurture. The oil slicks reminded us of gigantic formless monsters on a mission to destroy all life...

La Paz

We spoke with Gaia for over an hour and she was most impressed that we had already learned about the oxygen problem on the surface world.

As Gaia told us of the destruction the Earth surface people had done and their cruelty to the forests and animals, we noticed a tear fall from her left eye. It was not a tear of sadness she immediately told us, but a tear of joy, for she knew the world was changing very rapidly for the better. As we Earth Tykes believe, when the sharing of the Earth's resources begins and there is employment for everyone, then the people will open their hearts, they will step back to take a look at what humans have been doing; they have been living in a great madness for centuries now.

La Paz

Gaia asked us to speak with the Big Sea People and warn them about further oil spills in their sacred meeting places. We said our good-byes and returned to the space-marine.

Transmission 11:

The Big Sea People Lima

OK this is Lima again: We hastily climbed back into the space-marine and flew to the Earth's surface. From there we headed for the Atlantic ocean for an underwater trip to search for the big sea people, the whales.

On our journey to find the 'big sea people', we passed through an ancient sunken city deep under the ocean. In Earth Tyke history, these cities were destroyed before the last ice age but mainstream Earth surface historians, completely ignore this evidence; we often wonder why.

Lima

Eventually, we arrived at what appeared to be a sacred meeting place for the whales and other sea mammals. Hanta suggested we listen and keep our questions simple, because the whales would periodically have to return to the surface for air, so time was limited. We were in awe of the sheer size of these creatures, they dwarfed our space-marine, it was no wonder we Earth Tykes called them the big sea people.

Lima

Before any of us had time to speak, we heard a voice from one of the whales we had seen through our portholes. “You may call me Big Bluey,” said the voice. “Big Louis?” asked Rio, “Big Bluey,” we all said almost in unison. “He’s a blue whale,” I added glancing at Rio.

Hanta told us we could speak directly with the whales using a device on the space-marine console, it would enable us to communicate in any language.

“We are delighted to meet with you at last and we have much to discuss,” said Big Bluey. We settled down in some seats which appeared for us inside the space-marine and prepared to listen to what Big Bluey had to say.

Big Bluey continued. “Firstly you should know there are some perils to your quest, we are all under attack down here from whaling boats, pollution and submarines with sonar weapons. There is also becoming a shortage of food for many of us, and the plastic micro-beads in our oceans don’t help. However, it is our mission to stay here as long as we are able to help the surface humans. Many of the surface people have shown us great love and for that, we are eternally grateful. We Cetaceans, are of a similar opinion to the Earth Tykes and others, that if people of Earth had enough wealth to live and provide for their families, they would not be so desperate and brutal.”

There are rumours in the higher realms beyond this Earth, that there may be help from a mighty white dragon to change the fortunes of the world. He knows how to access a great wealth for all the creatures of the Earth to share. This wealth rightfully belongs to all, Big Bluey told us.

Lima

Big Bluey gave us a warning; “As we have often said, it is the resonance from our whale song that helps the recycling and fertility of the outer world. This is why the madmen we call the shadow people want to destroy us and all life. They have been trying to control the world population and all the money for a long time.”

Lima

Hanta used one of the space-marine life pods to get closer contact with the big sea people and he continued to speak with them as we admired the under water scenery. The Big Sea People told Hanta the story of a young prince who would return to the Earth from the world of spirit, he would help his people and Mother Earth. The prince could give Hanta and the Earth Tykes more information about The White Dragon.

Lima

The whales told Hanta that the young prince we were looking for, was now living on the inner planes as we call them. This is a place where souls can go when they are waiting to return to Earth for another life. Reincarnation is central to the Earth Tykes spiritual beliefs. So to find the young prince, we would need to undertake a voyage to the places inside of ourselves, like our dreams are inside of us if we think about it. But we would go beyond the dreamworlds.

Big Bluey said the whales and dolphins were also awaiting the White Dragon, he would be essential to take the pressure off themselves and all life on this planet. The whales believed there are those above us in heaven, that will makes sure the White Dragon arrives soon, then he will spread his wings of abundance around all the peoples and the creatures of the Earth.

We were all very encouraged by our meeting with Big Bluey and the other whales, they are so intelligent, wise and compassionate, we have so much to learn from them. The dolphin people who walked upright, had already spoken with our Earth Tyke relatives on Europa at the Earth summit meeting. They would pass on information to the sea dolphins here on Earth. We were of course a little concerned about the 'shadow people' mentioned by Big Bluey, they seemed to be working secretly with or without the consent of governments, they were greedy for power and cared nothing about life. It was very important therefore, that the Earth Tyke's mission succeeded as soon as possible, we had to let the people of Earth know there was a much better way to live.

We made our way back home to prepare for our secret voyage to find the young prince who may help us. Bye for now,
love Lima

...And finally a message from Big Bluey

Good-bye from the Big Sea People. Thank you to all the Earth surface people who have cared for us and don't worry, we are smarter than you think, we will survive...somehow, even if we have to withdraw from your planet for a while.
